Off-The-Job Training Hours

Off-the-job training is training which is received by the apprentice, for the purpose of achieving the knowledge, skills and behaviours of the approved apprenticeship referenced in the apprenticeship agreement.
The minimum volume of off-the-job training for all apprentices (full-time, part-time, term-time), is published for each apprenticeship standard on the Skills England website.
To be eligible for government funding the provider must ensure that an apprentice with no relevant prior learning receives at least the published volume of off-the-job training hours for the standard.
The published figure can only be reduced if there is evidence of relevant prior learning from the apprentice's initial assessment.
Your planned Off-the-job training may be higher than the minimum.

Published minimum off-the-job training: 557
Volume of RPL: 0
Minimum reduced by RPL: 557

Apprenticeship Assessment

End-Point Assessment (EPA)End-point assessment is carried out by an approved End-Point Assessment Organisation (EPAO), independently of the employer and training provider, and in accordance with the requirements of the applicable apprenticeship assessment plan.

The apprentice may proceed to end-point assessment once the required gateway conditions have been met and the employer, in consultation with the training provider, is satisfied that the apprentice has developed the knowledge, skills and behaviours required to successfully complete the apprenticeship.

The training provider will ensure that an appropriate EPAO is selected, engaged and recorded in accordance with the applicable apprenticeship funding rules and assessment plan. The provider will coordinate the assessment arrangements and ensure that the apprentice and employer understand the assessment methods, requirements and expected timescales.
